This was our first experience with ET. Both 035 and her mom 534 were perennial bull producers. We used Tiger hoping to get a new heifer bull for our own program. We put one egg in and got 2 calves. He can be used with confidence on heifers and know that they will out produce their EPD's. The 2 sons are very even, but this is the one we decided to keep for our own in herd use.

By the pound is still how cattle are sold and Shutout should sire more pounds than any bull offered today. We took him along to Denver and many other breeders were impressed with his combination of size and thickness. Plenty of base width here.

Retaining a 1/2 semen interest.

Another double bred calving ease bull sired by Back Haul. Another top 5 REA/100 bull that can be used on heifers with confidence. Don't overlook this bull raised by an older cow, that just keeps up the good work. Longevity does make you money in the long run.

The docility of this bull may be a little extreme

Out of Red Baron's mother, with a history of having great calves, and did well with this twin and his brother. A bull with a good sized ribeye and ribeye/100lbs. Nasdaq's dam is one of those super consistent females that has had 3 sets of twins and multiple bulls on our sales. She finally left our program at the age of 12. Longevity is a profit maker. Nasdaq is another Stock Market son with a very even set of performance and carcass numbers.

This Mission Core son has a top 5 REA/100 and is heifer safe. Together with 328, you would have 2 3/4 brothers for constancy in your calf crop. Daughters of these 2 bulls should be keepers.

Hollywood was our lead off bull in Denver. Great foot and leg structure with the fantastic hip shape that I have strived for. Biggest ribeye bull in the offering. Big framed and long. Red Baron has proved his worth over and over again. Lock into his sons to improve your bottom line.

I feel confident recommending some of Red Baron's low birth weight sons on heifers, as well. This has been reinforced, by having multiple heifers bred to Red Baron, calve this year in our own operation and one other operation with great success. Bering Sea would be one of those to use on heifers. Top 5 for REA and REA/100.

Jester is the other Red Baron son that I would be comfortable using on heifers. His dam has been consistently a lower birth weight cow, so having him at 74 was pretty normal. Jester's dam has had an amazing record with us in her 9 years, so his daughters should be terrific.

This bull was a twin and his full brother weighed 98 pounds, so not a heifer bull. Above average marbling and one of the easier keeping bulls offered. Our Maxed Out daughters are fairly moderate and definitely easier keeping than most. A nice feature to add to your herd.

The anchor of our Denver pen. Top marbling bull and according to Sam, because of the name I gave him, my favorite. Mavericks Gold Bar dam has been really good and I expect no less from his daughters. Probably the best balanced, from a phenotypic stand point of the Red Baron sons.

If you are looking for a moderate framed, even built, Red Baron son, with strong maternal genetics, then 355 is the bull for you. His mother's sire, Gold Bar, has made great, calm tempered females for us, that keep getting the job done.

Here at S Diamond Angus, we know that calving ease is very important to our commercial customers. We appreciate that lower birthweights usually mean calving ease, which is true. Two years ago, when we had temperatures that were well below freezing for 10 days straight, the size of the calf basically determined if it was going to live or not. The calves that had birthweights lower than 80, were much harder to keep alive than the calves that were above that. Calf vigor is just as important as calving ease in the success of a calf. So when choosing bulls with low birthweights, to prevent calving problems, consider the fact that smaller calves also do not handle weather changes as well either. We used to think that birthweights in the 70's, were better than the 80's and definitely better than the 90's. But we have found that calves that are in the 80's to 90's, have a better chance of survival after birth. There are many factors that can play into calving ease more than just birthweight. As you are looking through our catalog, if we suggest a bull that has a higher birthweight for heifers, please ask us why we feel safe stating that. It can be based on cow data, calf length and shoulder smoothness.

Bolded numbers are suitable for heifers

Some things you should know about these cattle:

- 1) These bulls were fed on a ration that never exceeded two pounds of corn per 100 pounds of body weight per day, per bull plus sudangrass silage. We feel that it is more important to grow bulls that will go out and breed cows and return home looking like they should. Feeding them at the house in bigger pens and corn stalks with more exercise, did drop our gains, but we believe will make for better bulls for you. Fat bulls are pretty when you buy them, but never again.
- 2) The carcass data on these bulls is presented as close to reality as possible. Please use the marbling scores only for in-herd comparisons. Since 1985 we have collected carcass data on every steer we have raised. We have even gone out and bought calves from our own bulls and fed them out. Our 5 year average of 94% choice or prime, speaks for itself and includes every calf not kept as a bull or replacement female.
- 3) Our goals are to produce bulls that will sire females that will make excellent replacements, and steers with enough performance to weigh 1200-1400 pounds at 12-14 months.
- 4) In the past, our cowherd has shown enough fertility that our calf crop is 80%-90% A.I. sired. This fall, we were at 89.8% pregnant and so far we are at 69% of our calves being born within 21 days of our first due date. Fertility is the number one ingredient in profitability in a cow/calf program. I think this shows in the scrotal circumferences of these bulls and will show in their daughters.
- 5) This cowherd is not a pampered cowherd. We expect these cows to calve unassisted, get the calf up, and raise it on grazed forages as much as possible. Very few calves are born in the barn and of those fewer are assisted in anyway. That is the cow's job.
- 6) We will keep the bulls until the first to middle of April at no cost to you. We will deliver the bulls to you at that time. All bulls will be semen checked and ready to work. If any bull has a problem in the first year, we will replace him or refund your money.

How the sale works

Each bull will have a price set before the sale. They will range from $3500 to $5000.

During the open house time of 11:30 till 2:00 feel free to examine the bulls and eat dinner. During that time get a buyers number and let the girls know which bulls you are interested in. You may check the master list at any time during the open house. At 2:00 we will announce that we are ready for the auction, at that time you need to finalize your selections. We will start with the highest priced bulls. If more than one buyer is interested in a bull, we will have an auction in $50-$100 dollar increments, till the bull is sold. After a bull sells, we will ask the new owner if he is done buying, if so, I will remove his buyer number from any other bulls he had selected. If you are the only one on a bull, you will have the option of taking that bull or passing. You will not go home with more bulls than you need. The auction usually takes 45 minutes to an hour.

If you have any questions, please take time to ask, that's why we have the open house portion of the sale.
